Ms. Holmes is the Director, Policy and Programs in the Crystal Meth Secretariat within the British Columbia Ministry of Public Safety and Solicitor General.

At the Crystal Meth Secretariat, Kjerstine is tasked with ensuring a coordinated and responsive approach across government to the problem of methamphetamine use and production in British Columbia. Within this role, she leads the development of policies, communications and public awareness initiatives, as well as consultations with stakeholders.

Ms. Holmes has worked as a policy and program advisor with both the federal and provincial governments. She has developed regulatory and public safety programs, including commercial vehicle safety, vehicle licensing and liquor control. In addition, she has held positions in customs and trade programs; performing anti-dumping and countervailing investigations and reviewing special duty remission requests.

Ms. Holmes received her Bachelor of Arts degree from McGill University, and her Masters in Public Administration from Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario.
